Le'yandria Ratomski is a pro-life ambassador who desires to inspire others. Born and raised in Detroit to a teenage mother, Le'yandria knew firsthand what poverty felt like. She also knew that hard work and determination could change her situation. She is the first person in her family to attend college. Her passions for public speaking and advocating for the unborn collided in 2014, when she joined Students For Life, a pro-life organization on her campus. Le'yandria wrote and self-published a children's book in 2018, inspired by her son, titled Yury the Fury. Le'yandria and her husband and son now reside in Dallas where she has been sharing her compelling pro-life story, with hopes to one day share her story all over the world.

All proceeds benefit Vitae Foundation, a national non-profit organization that facilitates research about life issues and applies the findings to create messaging strategies to share with others so that together, we can build a future where abortion is unthinkable.
